DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

This building is two and one half stories high and five bays wide. It is built of rusticated stone with wood, and has ashlar details and ornamentation.

The basement is pierced by several windows, two of them being sheet glass windows, the other being a small casement window set in a segmental arch recess. The latter window appears at the bottom of the stairway leading to the entrance. In the facade the vestibule is marked by a stilted round arch resting atop a pair of rusticated abaci and echini which have been set into the wall.

All windows are double hung 1/1 with sills and flat arch lintels of ashlar. The second and fifth bays of the first and second stories are in the form of a bay window, three windows comprising each of these bay windows in the second bay. In the fifth, the middle window is replaced by the rise of a chimney which ends atop the peak of the second large roof dormer.

The two large dormers alternate with two smaller ones. The latter contain one window beneath a hipped shed roof. The large dormers have half timbered construction; the first contains four windows sharing common mullions and within one moulded, flat arch frame.* The second contains only two windows. Both have a pitched roof. A mansard-like roof extends above and joins all the dormers.

* A chimney juts from the left side of its roof.
